
Nonuniqueness Criteria of Kamke-type for Ordinary Differential Equations

Christine Nowak (Univ. Klagenfurt)

THU/110 17:00–17:20

In literature there are several nonuniqueness results which are derived by an inversion of uniqueness criteria of Kamke-type. This approach has to be handled carefully in order to get compatible conditions. There are essential differences between the classical and the singular initial value problem.

- [1] R. P. AGARWAL, V. LAKSHMIKANTHAM: Uniqueness and Nonuniqueness Criteria for Ordinary Differential Equations. World Scientific 1993.
- [2] J. KALAS: General nonuniqueness theorem for ordinary differential equations. Dynam. Contin. Discrete Impuls. Systems. 3 (1997), 97–111.
- [3] J. KALAS: Nonuniqueness for the solutions of ordinary differential equations. Czechoslovak Math. J. 29(104) (1979), 105–112.
- [4] J. KALAS: Nonuniqueness results for ordinary differential equations. Czechoslovak Math. J. 48(123) (1998), 373–384.
- [5] J. KALAS: Nonuniqueness theorem for a singular Cauchy problem. Georgian Math. J. 7 (2000), 317–327.
- [6] C. NOWAK: Some remarks on a paper by Samimi on nonuniqueness criteria for ordinary differential equations. Applicable Anal. 47 (1992), 39–44.
- [7] C. NOWAK, H. STETTNER: Nonuniqueness results for ordinary differential equations. Nonlinear Anal. 30 (1997), 3935–3938.